(b) Government have decided to allow export of 10 lakh tonnes of domestically produced sugar. These exports can be carried out by the sugar mills either directly or through the exporters.

(c) The current sugar season 1999-2000 started with a carryover stock of 67.23 lakh tonnes of sugar. The production of sugar during the current season is likely to be about 180 lakh tonnes. Thus, the total availability of sugar in the country would be to the tune of 247.23 lakh tonnes as against the estimated consumption of 150.84 lakh tonnes of the season.

As regards the prices of sugar in the open market, it is mentioned that the Government have been following the policy of encouraging stability and reasonable level of sugar prices in the domestic market through the judicious releases of monthly freesale quotas. The government can always release additional freesale quota as and when the situation so warrants.
